

ALEXANDRIA, VA.

MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 19, 1882.

IN A TIMELY and apposite article on the existing differences between certain of the prominent men among the Maryland democrats, the Baltimore Day wisely observes:

"It is all very well fordemocrats to differ about matters of party policy and to discuss such questions in their party papers; but this is a very different thing from allowing such differences to plunge them into a blind fury in which they denounce their fellow democrats in such fashion as to almost render it impossible for them to work together afterward for the advancement of the principles and objects which they have in

This applies as well to the Virginia democrats as to their political friends on the other side of the Potomac, and they will do well to heed its wisdom. It is right and proper that democrats should differ concerning the advisability of party measures, as theirs is not a boss ruled party, but there is no reason why they should allow these differences to so effect them as to endanger party success, and to make them prefer party defeat to a rejection of their own individual notions, and such would-be leaders as are silly enough to talk about defeat with can--didates of their own selection being preferable to success with others, not only should be, but will be made to realize the fact that their importance is altogether self assumed, and that the party can get along just as well if not better, without their services than with them.

* Congress having legislated for nearly "all the world and the rest of mankind," can well afford to give a little of its attention during the remainder of the session to the bill for relieving the people of this country from some of the oppressive exactions of the internal revenue tax. There is no chance for any relief from the grievous burdens of the tariff until the democrats come into able to adjourn by the 1st of July, but does power again, or rather until the men the not believe the adjournment will take place people send to Congress are less susceptible to the influences the protected monopolists know so well how to use than those who now represent them, but as the influence of for three years, but had never yet been able those who profit by the internal revenue is to get unanimous consent to take up a bill not so potential, those who suffer from it are not as those entirely without hope.

While there are not many democratic readjusters, there are enough of them, if united with the straightout democrats, to restore Virginia to the hands of the party that is really interested in her prosperity, and to secure that union it will not be unwise to give them a share of the offices.

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] L. L. Maury has been Washington, D. C., June 19.—There for the Second District. are men and men. Three U.S. Senators were in an F street car. Saturday morning, on their way to the Capitol. They hailed years. respectively from Massachusetts, Oregon and Kentucky. Their conversation was desultory, and its topics seemed to be suggested by what they saw on their way. As the car has paid $74,000 into the State treasury in tory, and its topics seemed to be suggested ascended Capitol Hill the Senator from cash, Norfolk city $30,000, and Lynchburg Kentucky noticed some larkspurs growing $24,000. in a lot on the way side, and, addressing his colleague from Massachusetts, and directing his attention toward them, asked him if the sight did not carry him back to his boyish days, and to his mother's garden? The Kentuckian's thoughts had probably gone backward to the times when, with his hand in his mother's, he had walked through the garden in his old happy boyish home, to twilight plays, to youthful hopes, to school vacation; for a moment he was a boy again, and having been made so by the sight of the blue flowers, and being a natural man as well as a Senator, he suposed that his associate from Massachusetts was susceptable to the same human influences. But he was mistaken, for the latter glanced at the flowers a second, drawled "yes," and taking a copy of the New York Tribane from his pocket, commenced reading it. "A primrose on the river's brim, A yellow primrose was to him, And it was nothing more."

The Senate committee on the reclamation of the Potomac flats agreed, at their meeting this morning, that the best, easiest, and speediest way for that work to be affected would be to amend the river and harbor bill as passed by the House by adding a section appropriating $2,500,000 for its accomplishment. Several members of the committee are also members of the Chimmerce Committee, to which the river and harbor bill will be referred, and it is supposed that that committee will agree to the proposed amend-

In the Senate to-day Mr. Fry, from the Committee on Rules, reported a resolution authorizing the Vice-President or President pro tem. of the Senate to designate in writing a Senator who shall be presiding officer of the Senate for a day or during his temporary absence. This is intended to prevent a repetion of what occurred a week or two ago, when the Senate was forced to adjourn because it had no presiding officer.

Among the bills introduced in the House to-day were two by Mr. Paul, one to relieve the political disabilities of Edward P. Ruggles of King George county, Virginia, who was a cadet at West Point at the breaking out of the war, and the other to relieve those of Dr. Washington of Westmoreland county, same State, who was a surgeon in the Confederate army. Among the petitions introduced was one by Mr. Barbour for the relief of Maria L. Brown.

Senator Mahone was not in his seat to-day and is supposed to be in Richmond in attendance upon eeting of his central committee. Messrs. Paul and Fulkerson are both in the House.

CHARGED WITH A FELONIOUS ASSAULT. A special dispatch from Frederick, Md., says:

"A preliminary hearing in the case of the William Miller of insulting his (Craigin's) State vs. Dr. James T. Johnson, charged wife, and shot at him. The discussion in regard to the removal of the remains of Thomas Jefferson seems most untimely and without a foundation of reason. Letter from Richmond.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] RICHMOND, Va., June 19.—Eighty-eight in the shade, business brisk, and the political pot simmering.

Richmond possesses, or rather its people do, a peculiarity that hasn't its counterpart outside the Hub-I mean the Hub of Virginia, Warrenton; the extreme politeness of the male portion of its inhabitants. Nearly every man you meet speaks to you. It don't make any difference whether he ever saw you before or not. Some say this urbanity is indigenous to Richmond soil; but I have heard one or two very vulgar people remark that it was because every other person you met either is a candidate for office or runs a green grocery store.

Richmond is spreading in all directions: six hundred dwellings and stores will be erected here this year. The Mozart Association have about concluded to build and smells "goubers" ass of it. The Readjusters assemble here for conference to day. A great many of the small fry came last night. This meeting is for the purpose of mapping out the fall campaign and considering the advisability of changing the name of the party. The Mahoneites think that the present title, readjuster, has think that the present title, readjuster, has about accomplished all it can, and they now Md 16a$17. Coffee steady; Rio cargoes ordinary want one of broader significance. There is scarcely any probability of an extra session of the Legislatu.e. Even should one of the Big Four give in. Senator Rawles is said to have gotten his back up, and under no circumstances would he give up his judgeship for a few days in the Virginia Senate.

For the nineteenth time we have said that Russell must go, and that as soon as Congress adjourns the collector's office will know him no more. In view of the fact, that Gen. Mahone has been trying for eight months to get Mr. Russell out of office and has signally failed, those who are candidates for his boots have begun to despair. Had Rnssell been as shrewed as some give him credit to be, he would long since have gotten rid It is a noted fact that taken as a body the of that lot of straightout political fungi in his office and replaced them with readjusters, and the bloody chasm between him and the Boss would have ere this been O. K. John S. Dodson, Chairman Readjuster Executive candidate for Internal Revenue collector. But we shall see what we do see.

Many watery eyes have also been cast upon the collector of customs' office, but as Capt Cook is an ex-army officer, lost an arm at Gettysburg, has just been made chief of the Richmond Post G. A. R., nearly three years before his official term expires, it is more than probable that candidates for his place will have to wait a while. Besides I understand that Capt. Cook not only voted the coalition ticket, but contributed money towards its success, and is all right with the boss. Let us hope when Russell goes Cook

W. et and Wickham the Democratic. Spitzer resigned the secretaryship of the straightout committee sometime ago, and was tendered a similar position on the Democratic Readjuster Executive Committee of this city and has accepted. Verily he knows a thing or two. John Ambler Smith has opened a law office be distributed and the Society of Alumni here, it is said, not so much for the purpose addressed by Henry Tutwiler, M. A., of of practicing his profession, as for re-establishing his residence in this district with his eye on Congress. He represented this district in Congress once, but lighting don't often strike in the same place. But as Mr. Smith's father any brother are both straightouts, and as there are many simon-pure Readjusters here who are willing to lead a forlorn hope simply for advertisement, John Ambler will have a pretty tough time getting the nomination. Elam, of the Whig will probably be the readjuster nominee for this district. Under the Riddleberger bill some extra clerks were to be appointed July 1st to assist in issuing the new bonds; but not till then. Since April three parties have been drawing $100 per month under this very same bill. Is this not a little contrary to law?

Railroad Accident.

DANVILLE, Va., June 19 .- The south bound mail train on the Virginia Midland Railway ran off on an open switch, this morning, at Fall Creek Station, about six miles from Danville, and collided with a number of coal cars. The engine and several cars attached were thrown from the track down an embankment. The engine was much damaged and the mail car broken to pieces. Engineer Elisha Butler, of Alexandria, Va., jumped from the engine and had his hand severely cut,arm and leg broken and his head cut in several places. Henry Brown, fireman, remained on the engine and was not hurt. H. A. Brown, an engine hand, was scalded and bruised. Mail Agent Cook was knocked senseless and was thought fatally injured, but recovered sufficiently to look after the mails. The remains of the passenger train with the mails and passengers were afterwards brought to town. The account given by passengers and railroad coal cars were being shifted and attached to a freight train bound for Danville, and then on the side track and that the mail train being a head of time ran into the open switch, the flagman not having been able to stop it.

For the past thirty days considerable amounts of consols have been sold for London account. These sales were generally London account. These sales were generally made seller 30 days and recently several large blocks have arrived and the sellers options having been delivered, the bonds are quite plentiful. been delivered, the bonds are quite plentiful, more of them being on the market then there has been since the English were such heavy buyers. The short interest, which at one time was very large, has been to a great extent covered, which diminishes the demand and withdraws what has been a strong sustaining influence, from the market. Consols commenced the week at fil has an ket. Consols commenced the week at 61, but un-der a steady pressure to sell steadily declined to 5916, closing at 60. As we said before these bonds may sell lower, but we do not see why they should not be a good purchase at any further co cession in prices.
